The Russian journalist talks about her critique of "Putin's Russia"

Anna has been so critical of the President and so outspoken about the situation in Chechnya that she received death threats and had to flee the country.

Putin

“Under President Putin we won’t be able to forge democracy in Russia and will only turn back to the past. I am not an optimist in this regard and so my book is pessimistic. I have no hope left in my soul. Only a change of leadership would allow me to have hope but it’s a political winter. The Kremlin is turning the country back to its Soviet past.”

Libertà di informazione in Russia

Che il presidente russo abbia la mano pesante con i giornalisti non è una novità.

Cecenia

Children of Chechen “Spetsoperations” - by Anna Politkovskaya - Novaya Gazeta - May 19 2002
Do you still think you should be supporting the war in Chechnya because of some aim that’s being pursued, so things wouldn’t get worse? We have reached a stage in Russia now, where every schoolchild knows that Chechnya is being “cleaned”, and adults no longer bother with the inverted commas.

Cecenia: anno nuovo, vecchi metodi - Rapimenti, razzie, esecuzioni... - Anna Politkovskaya - Novaya Gazeta.

I canali che mostrano alla popolazione la verità televisiva sulla situazione in Cecenia mostrano un’interminabile e vittoriosa liquidazione di “terroristi internazionali”.
